Founded in 2005, Biggy's Landscape Services does design, installation, and maintenance of landscape and irrigation. They specialize in natural stone walls and patios, as well as shrub and perennial design. Their client mix is 70% residential and 30% commercial. Their current mix of services are 50% design/build, 15% lawn care, 15% maintenance, 15% irrigation, 2.5% snow & ice management, and 2.5% retail sales. They have three full year employees and ramp up with 14 seasonal employees. The company services Flathead, Lake, Lincoln, and Missoula counties.

One season after installation of a year-long project that transformed an ordinary, relatively bland landscape with acres of manicured lawn into an incredible display of natural stone walls, steps and patios with lots of color, texture and mood from plantings.

Holly describes her ideal client as "one who enjoys being involved with the designing process and is enthusiastic about gardening." When asked about her thoughts on an important tool for gardeners, she suggested that every gardener needs a soil knife. A. M. Leonard produces a great commercial version. It has an orange composite handle and stainless steel blade. The knife cuts twine, has a saw blade on one edge, and is a very tough tool. "Our gardeners swear by it," notes Holly.

In considering her business, Holly discusses the pleasure she gets from receiving a call from a friend of a client. "Word of mouth" is Biggy's way of advertising. "We know our job was done successfully when a client refers us to their friends and family," Holly explains.

Holly Wadsworth currently serves as secretary on the MNLA Board of Directors.
